Earl graduated with a Masters' Degree in Business Information Systems Management from Middlesex University in 2010. Since then, he has gained experience by working hands-on across a number of sectors assisting and later designing processes based on the needs of the business and the firm's structure. Over the years, he was exposed to various technologies and techniques and garnered substantial experience in software development and infrastructure maintenance.

His analytical skills and sharp attention to detail, together with his methodological approach is what gives Earl the cutting edge in his work. At Nexia BT, his role is to identify IT solutions to best suit the firm's requirements. Earl has also designed a number of websites for a number of distinguished businesses on the island.
