Head of Compliance

john.caruana@nexiabt.com

John has been in the financial services industry for the past ten years. He holds a B.Com (Hons) in Banking & Finance and an M.Sc. in Banking and Finance. He started off his career within the financial advisory industry where he managed a large number of retail and corporate clients together with high net worth clients in Malta and abroad. Following his experience in financial advisory, John was trained in London by an international foreign exchange firm on complex FX derivative products where he obtained knowledge on how to structure and value FX Options within the hedging industry. John introduced most of the 'Premium-Free FX hedging solutions' in Malta where he held the position of an Options Dealer for Maltese and international corporate clients. John's focus on foreign exchange continued when he took over the trading desk of a large FX market maker. His involvement in Foreign exchange became an academic one through the University of Malta where he published two international publications on FX Hedging in 2016 and 2017. In 2015 John took over the Management of a local fund management company and also held Directorship, MLRO and compliance positions in various investment funds. John is also a visiting lecturer at the University of Malta and at the Malta International Training Centre where he lectures on financial and compliance related subjects.
